About the COST Action

TrANsMIT (Techno-economic Analysis of Carbon Mitigation Technologies) is a COST Action dedicated to advancing harmonised and holistic assessment of Carbon Capture, Utilisation and Storage (CCUS) technologies and systems. The Action brings together researchers, industry stakeholders, and policymakers across Europe to develop common methodologies and tools for techno-economic analysis and life-cycle thinking across the entire CCUS value chain. Organised into five Working Groups, TrANsMIT addresses knowledge integration and exchange, process modelling and simulation, techno-economic assessment, training and dissemination, and life-cycle thinking. Through collaboration, networking, and capacity-building activities, the Action supports the development and deployment of technically feasible, economically viable, and sustainable carbon mitigation solutions that contribute to Europe's climate neutrality goals.
